Wrecked Trolley Takes Fire—Several of the In-

After the Crash.

BY T. O. PIPER.
BELMONT PARK, May 13.—James R. Keene administered a setback to the club-house coterie when his filly Court Dress romped home a winner in the exclusive and historic Fashion Stakes worth $15,000, to-day. Harry Payne Whitney, R. H. McCarter Potter and the Rainey's, through C. T. Henshall, in whose name Dollie Dollars is run, had set their heart on seeing the winner come from the barn of one of their own set.

There is a sharp curve at this point of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company's system, and the motor engineer of the express train did not see the trolley car which was speeding toward Coney Island at a much slower pace, directly in the path of the motor-car train.

When the unknown Court Dress, making her first racing essay under the Keene colors, brushed by a winner the club-house set was blue. Then talk reverted to the old turf war between the Whitneys and the Keenes, recalling the days of the Tommy Atkins-Olympian-Ballyhoov Boy imbroglio. There was much sympathy expressed for young Whitney, who had every reason to believe that his fleet little Jersey Lady would win, but the "dark" horse spoiled the prearranged club-house jubilation.

Mr. Keene, occupying a seat on the lawn of the clubhouse, received the congratulations of his friends grimly. He expressed himself rather tactless. The result, being partly anticipated, pleased the Court Dress. To all his filies, won; because she has been his favorite.

BOY CRUSHED TO DEATH BY WAGON

McVieth, Jumping on Car,
Fell and Rolled in Front of Express.

Seventeen-year-old George McVeith, of No. 212 West Seventeenth street, was crushed to death to-day by an express wagon in front of No. 584 Broadway. The driver of the cart, Michael Clark, of No. 51 Goerck street, was arrested and detained at the Mulberry street station.

McVeith was employed as a messenger by Mrs. M. Robey, a dealer in milk and supplies, at No. 169 Fifth avenue. He had been downtown on an errand, and in attempting to board a north-bound Lexington avenue car fell and rolled under the wagon. A wheel passed over his head, crushing it.

The wagon, owned by Jackson Brothers, expressmen of No. 38 Church street, was heavily laden with trunks.

(Special to The Evening World.)

RICHMOND, Va., May 19.—Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, while speeding in an automobile near Winchester today, was jostled from his seat, and would have been thrown from the car had not his companion grabbed and held him.

The auto hit the edge of a gully and was almost overturned.

* FOURTH RACE The Withers for three-year-olds $100 added one mile. Start

It is again the mighty Roseben. With absolute ease and space devouring strides the great horse won the first race to-day, packing 133 pounds as if it was a mere feather and galloping ahead of his competitors like the speedy carrier of mail. He is the only horse that has been back to his best form, evidencing, too, the significant fact that Roseben can travel a greater distance and carry his phenomenal speed throughout. The distance was seven and a half furlongs to-day, and Roseben has been back to his best since analyzing his return to best form. Such comparative cattle as Tommy Waddell, Chinn, The Claimant and Gentian attempted to follow the great horse, but the bunch, after he broke the heart of the gelding, he had travelled the distance in a record time. Stout Tommy Waddell essayed victory in the stretch, but was a useless effort to follow the bird.

Duel in the Stretch.

The second race resulted in a stretch duel between Donna Elvira and Montford, with the Donna always having the foot of the colt. Plausible necked it out for the third position. She came from the R. T. Wilson, Jr., stable, and the play was so heavy that he went to the post fast and mounted Elvira looking better on performance, but it was not enough in private trials that induced the heavy club-house and "wise" players to bet on her. His improvement continues as he will beat Donna at the same game next time.

Keene's Filly Won.

James H. Keere's filly Court Dress won the Fashion Stakes. It was her first appearance at the post and she went there fit, as the race showed. She came away with a $-win, carried upon her back, and the famous white and blue spots were under the wire in a flash. Clara Russell ran a fine race and looked a winner until the critical last furlong, when she was overtaken by the favorite, Jersey Lady, filled in third place, the others close up.

On the strength of a past workout of a mile and an eighth, Bohemian was one of the best played of the three. He was a favorite for the post and for the classic Withers. He ran a good ance, being a trifle short, and had to be content with second place in a driving final. The following year, however, in 1905, his mere 20 yards from the wire, when Accountant, the more seasoned, came out of the bunch, winning hidden out to the last course. Bohemian was a two-time favorite in the favorite of Clark Griffith, which essayed the lead at the last furling but was smothered in the flush of the two honor horses. The winner, Ken came within an inch of annexing the Withers as well as the Fashion.

Jumps a Good One.

The jump brought out a poor field but resulted in a good race. Gold Fleu was at all times the favorite, but that was about all he got, for Fairhaven made a hit on the running and came home alone. The favorite failed to beat the Doctor for second money.

Was a Game Finish.

The closing race resulted in a hard-learned victory for Colonial Girl, with Sowell up. She was not close to the pace and at the end came away in a handsome style. Eugenia Burch and Von Tromp both closed strong. Adbell was killed off making the pace.

Woman Crushed to Death.
Passengers were thrown from their seats and the wildest excitement prevailed. One of the victims, a woman, was ground under the wheels of the cars and instantly killed. Others were tossed through the car windows.

To add to the confusion almost immediately the trolley car caught fire. Women were trampled upon by the men in the latter's haste to get from the car. In the first cars of the motor trains children were trampled upon.

B. R. T. Car as an Ambulance.
Ambulance calls were sent in and the injured were taken to the Coney Island Emergency Hospital. Five were conveyed thither in a Brooklyn Rapid Transit car.
Capt. Haridas, of the Coney Island Police Station, was early at the scene of the accident. On account of the location of the collision, the scene of many previous accidents, it being a trestle over the Coney Island Creek, it was impossible to bring out the fire engines to put out the flame, of the
